Adobe Inc. is a registered entity in the State of Florida. It is also the current provider of Portable Document Format (PDF) standardized software and associated publishing applications that reside on County workstations, laptop computers and other devices serving County operations across the enterprise.

Since 1993, the County built business processing on, and around, the International Standardization Organization-certified PDF standard. This recognized standard provides a wide range of products for the creation of PDF documents and offers a PDF Adobe Reader at no-cost to consumers. The County has steadily invested significant funds in the line of Adobe products. Currently, expenditures for Adobe products occur in every County agency, with heavy concentrations of product in those who directly serve the public or who utilize heavy process-oriented tasks.

Furthermore, Adobe subscription services include use of a Cloud collaboration site that is only available to County staff. Staff may post forms and other design documents for sharing with other agencies or within their working groups. This type of cloud service has unique capabilities not found in other offerings. The County relies heavily on the adopted standard of Adobe to deliver public services. This standard ensures that any document created for public use is readable in a standard format using no-cost products from Adobe (Exhibit 1).

Upon standardization of Adobe products and services as a subscription service, the Purchasing Division in collaboration with the Enterprise Technology Services Division will solicit a new three-year agreement through a competitive bid process using an alternate government contract during the final year of the current Agreement, which expires November 25, 2021.
