Summary Explanation/Background

On August 25, 2020, the Board directed the Office of the County Attorney to draft amendments to Chapter 16½ of the Broward County Code of Ordinances ("Human Rights Act") removing certain religious exemptions currently in the Human Rights Act.

The Human Rights Act provides that religious entities are exempt from certain prohibitions of the Human Rights Act, such as discriminating against certain protected classifications relating to employment, public accommodations, and real estate transactions. Recently, the United States Supreme Court recognized that sexual orientation and gender identity are protected under Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964. The United States Supreme Court also issued a decision clarifying the ministerial exception under the First Amendment that limits employment discrimination claims against religious school employees who are educating students about their faith.

The proposed amendment would narrow the current exemptions for religious entities to be consistent with the requirements and religious exemptions of Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964.
