Summary Explanation/Background

The Florida Legislature passed, and Governor Ron DeSantis signed, Chapter 2021-214, Laws of Florida, which, among other things, provides that the licensing of occupations is preempted to the state and, with certain exceptions, generally supersedes local government licensing requirements for occupations. This new law, codified as Section 163.211, Florida Statutes, provides that unless expressly permitted by that section or otherwise permitted by general law, local licensing of occupations is not authorized and may not be enforced.

In consultation with the Office of the County Attorney, the Environmental and Consumer Protection

Division ceased accepting new license or registration applications for locksmiths or locksmith businesses as of July 1, 2021.
