SUBJECT: Travel Outside the Continental United States

Travel authorization number for Dr. Jennifer Jurado, Deputy Director and Chief Resilience Officer of Resilient Environment Department to attend Resilient Cities Forum @The Conduit, London, UK from December 7-9, 2025. The departure will be on December 5, 2025, with Arrival in London on December 6, 2025. The return flight will be on December 11, 2025. Dr. Jurado will be traveling with Commissioner Furr to this event.

This convening will include a gathering of 300 global stakeholders with a focus on driving exponential progress in the next phase of effective urban resilience. Participants will include Chief Resilience Officers, City Leaders, solution providers, investors, and innovators to explore the next decade of urban resilience.

This Forum will examine how local governments can scale proven solutions, learn from each other, and integrate cutting-edge innovations to strengthen resilience at the local and systemic levels.

Areas of exploration will include risk finance, insurance solutions, and blended finance models to de-risk resilience investments and the challenge of funding urban resilience by making resilience outcomes more measurable and investable. The agenda will also highlight how understanding new technologies can safeguard critical infrastructure and improve local decision-making and early warning systems.

The Resilient Cities Forum is the first gathering of these resilience leaders for over 5 years. The purpose of this meeting is to help define the vision for city resilience for the next decade and to share and scale the most effective solutions.

Funds for this trip will be paid out of Chart Fields 10610-55101010-519030 = $970.38,
519050 = $903, and 519060 = $200

Resilient Cities will be paying for the flight ($965.01) and hotel ($485.19 per night) from December 7-9, 2025. Broward County will be paying for 1 additional hotel nights December 6th ($485.19), meals and incidentals $174 x 4 days ($696) for a total of $1181.19.
